SLASHING ALLIED COMMANDO RAID ON PORT OF DIEPPE NETS CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF PRISONERS; IMPROVISE CAMPS

American, British, Canadian and Fighting French Troops Return Overjoyed at Success of Undertaking in Spite of Some Wounded and Exhausted—Nazi Prisoners' Eyes Bandaged for Sake of British Security

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 20 — The slashing Allied Commando raid on the Nazi-held port of Dieppe which charted a course for future permanent invasion of the European continent netted a considerable number of German prisoners, it was learned today.

While British fighting planes criss-crossed the channel and long-range British guns threw over a barrage of steel to provide a cover for the last participants returning from the historic attack, a few details were disclosed of the gigantic operations in which American Commandos played a major role.

Despite the official efforts to maintain secrecy, some things could not be hidden as the American, British, Canadian and Fighting French troops came back home, many of them wounded, almost exhausted, but every last man of them overjoyed at success of the undertaking.

Among them as they looped through the streets of coastal towns, their uniforms torn, bloody and bedraggled, were easily recognized Nazi prisoners, including a number of officers.

They were marched away to camps, all of them bareheaded and with their eyes bandaged for the sake of British security.

Canadian troops quickly improvised barbed-wire compounds for the prisoners, where they were held for a few hours and then marched to the railway station for transfer to a regular prison camp.

Gunfire flashed again over the French coast early today as the last of the raiding British Commandos and American Rangers tumbled wearily into bed after their successful return from Dieppe.

The reverberations of explosions and the eerie light of white flares was reported from the area of Calais on the Dover Strait and the action was taken as an indication that Allied planes were again over enemy territory.

Throughout the night and into the early hours of dawn the Allied raiders—Canadians, British, Americans and fighting French—landed at various points along the English coast from power-driven seagoing barges and other types of vessels.

WAR HAS CHANGED AMERICAN NAVY IN INNUMERABLE WAYS

TRANSITIONS BY THE SCORE HAVE BEEN NOTED BY NAVAL OFFICERS AND MEN SINCE PEARL HARBOR

By John R. Henry
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WITH THE ATLANTIC FLEET, AT SEA, Aug. 20 — (INS)—War has changed the American Navy today in hundreds of different little ways.

Officers and men can point out the transitions by the score. These include alterations of ships as well as regulations governing personnel.

The changes appear so insignificant, however, that they would be almost imperceptible to the average landlubber.

In peacetime, for example, each large naval craft supplied its men with safety matches that carried the ship's name on the pack cover. Some of the safety match covers were elaborately designed, often including a photograph or pictures of the ship.

Matches are sold in the ship's store, of course, but nowadays the name of a vessel no longer is printed on the cover.

MARTIN IS SPEAKER AT PICNIC WHICH OPENS CAMPAIGN

Republican Candidate For Governor Promises To Stop Pollution

GETS A BIG OVATION

Addresses Picnic Held By Crawford County Republicans

FRENCHTOWN, Aug. 20 — In an address at the Crawford County Republican picnic, a pre-campaign event on the Fall political calendar, Major General Edward Martin, Republican nominee for Governor, pledged that if elected in November he would strive to end pollution of "every foot of water" in the State.

"We are just about knee-deep in what will be a long, hard war. We will need all the recreation, all the out-door life we can get. You folks in Northwest Pennsylvania are rich in forests, waters, wild game and fish. In Crawford you are most fortunate in your many fine streams and your six beautiful lakes including Pymatung. It is good to recall that Pennsylvania has 9,500 miles of approved streams and 139,000 acres of approved lakes open to public fishing. More than 2,355,000 acres of public lands, owned by the Game Commission and the Commonwealth are a vast out-door school for good citizenship.

"We need every foot of these streams and every acre of these lands. The war worker needs them as an escape from the grind and turmoil of hard-driven lathes and forges. All of us need them in this time of stress, strain and war-twisted nerves.

"These woods and waters offer us the fine, clean sportsmanship that makes good Americans. They are a heritage from the past that we must extend and cherish for the future. They build strong bodies. They will make it easier for us to get on with the job of fighting and winning this war.

"This great heritage and the sportsmen who created and maintained it will not be forgotten by my Administration."—Continued On Page Four

The Bristol Control Center, which is to function from the Municipal Building and serve the lower area of Bucks County, will be in need of a typewriter, it is stated.

This request comes from the Bristol Defense Council and Franklin Wallin, the controller.

Controller Busy Setting Up Center For Defense Area

Two Rooms To Be Occupied In Basement of Municipal Building

The controller of the Civilian Defense Area of Lower Bucks County, Franklin Wallin, despite his many, many duties as personnel director of the Rohm & Haas Company, is now actively engaged in mapping plans and arranging the details preparatory to setting-up the center in the Bristol Municipal Building. Announcement of Mr. Wallin's appointment was made Saturday.

Mr. Wallin has visited the two rooms in the basement of the Municipal Building from where the control center is to function.

Asked to stop for just a minute and give an outline of his new activities Mr. Wallin said:

"Since I accepted the position of Controller of Civilian Defense activities in the Lower Bucks County area, I have had an opportunity to only make the briefest outline of the procedure which will be followed.

The control center for the Lower Bucks County area will essentially be the nerve center for directing and supervising the activities of the air raid wardens, the emergency police, the fire-fighting forces, the demolition crews, the American Red Cross, and the medical forces. Each of the above will have a representative on the control center staff.

"The control center is to be located in the basement of the Municipal Building. Two rooms have been assigned for the use of the control center only. The set-up as outlined at present, will consist of a large map board to be placed on one side of the room and a row of desks for the members of the staff. The Defense Council has made application for a greatly expanded telephone service to this office so that communications can be received promptly from the whole Lower Bucks County area. This information will be posted on the control map and the conditions of any incident can be considered by the Controller and his staff promptly. A decision will be made immediately as to what action should be taken and, through the Controller's staff, appropriate orders can be forwarded to any part of the Lower Bucks County area."

It is expected that the expenses, which will be small, for the erection of this control center will be shared by all of the communities of the Lower Bucks County area and be pro-rated on a population basis as far as possible. Workers in the control center are all volunteers.

PATRIOTS EAT CHEESE

Domestically-produced cheese is the Victory Food Special in the United States for the two-week period ending August 29. Patriotic Americans are asked to increase their consumption of this excellent food to help conserve meat supplies essential for war purposes. Many Americans have neglected this nutritious food.

Every schoolchild interested in statistics on food consumption knows that European peoples, especially those of Western Europe, have eaten annually from two to four times the amount of cheese consumed by Americans, and no one will be likely to say that Europeans have not been strong and healthy.

Cheese has a long and distinguished history. It is mentioned in several places in the Old Testament. The Greeks and Romans considered it a staple food for at least 1,000 years before the Christian era. The Jews and Romans, recognizing its strength-giving properties, fed it to their troops because of its convenient concentrated form, and the Greeks gave it to their wrestlers to give them endurance. The experience of the Greeks indicates it would be just the thing for young men training for Commando activities.

Britannica discloses that while cheese is marketed throughout the world under 400 or 500 different names, there are probably only about eighteen distinct varieties. But most of them are good, and America produces a large number. In fact, since the war cut off importations of European cheeses, the varieties produced on this side of the Atlantic have increased. Wisconsin now produces more than two-thirds of the cheese made in America.

FORGETFUL MOTORISTS

Some seer learned in psychology ought to be asked to explain why so many citizens of this land seem to forget, once they are back of the wheel, that they have a stake in this war and that tire and gasoline conservation are important elements having to do with victory.

According to the Public Roads Administration at Washington, more than half the motorists "in several states still drive more than forty miles an hour despite the appeal by President Roosevelt that this maximum speed be adopted to conserve tires and gasoline." The data was turned over to the War Department's highway traffic advisory committee, which is conducting a drive to save both products.

That some improvement has been made in certain areas is indicated by the fact that the average speeds of traffic in eight states were shown to be two to eight miles an hour slower than before Pearl Harbor. Perhaps too many motorists have a tendency to forget the Japanese attack once they begin touring the countryside. Perhaps they should carry miniature phonographs which bark "Remember Pearl Harbor" as soon as the speedometer hits more than forty miles per hour.

Chocolate bars may disappear from the market, it is predicted. How to hoard chocolate bars is a new problem for the thrifty.

Argentina will discover in the fullness of time that sending diplomatic messages to Germany is a waste of cable tolls.

That oil pipe line which is to be speeded in Florida can be used after the war to speed orange juice on its way.

SPEED IN CANNING CORN REDUCES THE LOSS BY SPOILAGE

By Edna Stephany

(Home Economics Representative)
There's a good supply of home-grown sweet corn this year, and Bucks County Homemakers are reminded to can now for next winter's meals.

Speed in operation and canning small amounts at one time are important for the safe keeping of canned corn. It is advisable to can the corn immediately after picking and prepare only enough corn at one time to fill the number of jars that will fit in your canner.

Never allow the cut corn or the packed jars to stand any length of time in the warm kitchen, for these are conditions under which spoilage flourishes. Work quickly and get the jars into the processing container as rapidly as possible.

After the processing period is complete, remove the jars and let them cool quickly. Corn flat sours easily, that is, it develops a sour taste if it stands too long in a warm place before processing or does not cool rapidly after processing.

Do not pack the corn too tightly in the jar, it is a second important point in canning corn. When corn is packed too tightly, it becomes almost solid in the jar and heat cannot penetrate during the processing period. Cut the corn from the cob, cover with boiling water and bring to a boil. Fill jars with hot corn to within 1 inch of the top. Add a half teaspoon of salt to each pint and have enough liquid to cover the corn. The corn should be loose enough so that you can shake it in the jars. Only pint jars are recommended for canning corn.

Seal jars and process pint jars 60 minutes in the pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure, or in a hot water bath 160 minutes. The pressure cooker is safer than the water bath because a higher temperature can be reached. However, if necessary to use the water bath, be sure to follow directions carefully. Oven canning is not recommended for corn.

Full details for canning corn, as well as other vegetables and fruits, are given in the new Pennsylvania State College Circular 238, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home." Copies of this circular may be obtained at the Agricultural Extension Office in Doylestown.

ARGUMENT DIDN'T WORK

WICHITA FALLS, Tex.—(INS)—Finding a rookie on K. P. who was eating more than his share of ice cream bars taken from the mess supply, Sheppard Field mess inspector Major James W. Cocking, tried to remonstrate with him. "Suppose you and the cook and supply man each took an ice cream bar—that would be three, wouldn't it?" asked the major. "Yes, sir," replied the rookie. "And suppose you were one of the last three men to come through the chow-line and found all the ice cream gone?" the major pursued. "Wouldn't you cuss?" "No, sir," replied the K. P. evenly—"I never use profane language, sir!"

Slashing Allied Commando Raid On Dieppe Nets Many Prisoners; Improve Camps

rons of Spitfires and Hurricanes kept a constant vigil in the sky to ward off any German aircraft that might attempt to interfere with the joyous homecoming of the victorious battalions.

Nowhere except in Berlin was the gallantry and success of the expedition in question. The meager details of the combined operations command made this abundantly clear. The Allied shock troops fought their way ashore against terrific odds at several points and recovered from an initial repulse in one place.

Then some contingents maintained themselves in enemy territory for at least nine hours, destroying ammunition dumps, knocking out artillery positions, anti-aircraft batteries and radio stations.

However, the immediate tangible results were considered unimportant in comparison with the experience and knowledge gained as a basis for a future full-scale invasion.

Aside from the specific objectives of demolition, it was the opinion in military circles that the spectacular raid was a test of the strength of the German defenses on the occupied coast and a research expedition to determine how fast the enemy could mobilize its ground forces and its air strength to meet an attack.

It was also a test of the training of the Commandos and Rangers and the ability of the commanders of assorted troops to deliver perfect co-ordination of effort.

The answers to these and other questions were believed to have been entirely satisfactory and will be studied in developing the detailed plans for the final inevitable opening of the second front in Europe.

In the Southwest Pacific loss of the Australian cruiser Canberra during the Allied fleet action off the Solomon Islands was announced. Only 84 of the ship's complement of 816 were dead or missing. The wounded included 109. All survivors have been landed at an Australian port.

There was no indication whether the Canberra was the ship referred to as sunk in the first communique on the Solomons battle.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced the first raid by Flying Fortress bombers on Japanese bases within the Solomons. Enemy warships at Faisi were attacked but results were not observed. Allied medium bombers made another attack on a Japanese base on Timor, but here again there was no report on results obtained.

Russian forces in the Caucasus-Don battle stiffened again after yielding the town of Krasnodar to the advancing Germans in the northwest Caucasus.

The Red Army was reported fighting bitter defensive battles in this area, to bar the enemy's way to the important Soviet naval base of Novorossisk on the Black Sea, only 60 miles away.

In the Don elbow the Nazis drove to the west bank of the river and then forced a crossing, but the advance was wiped out immediately, and Soviet counter-attacks were launched.

German counter-attacks in the Voronezh area, all of which were repulsed, have cost the enemy 5,500 dead in the past few days. On the south-central Caucasus front a column of Nazi infantry was reported to have surrounded Pyatigorsk, 140 miles northwest of the Grozny oil fields.

of cucumbers, three and one-half barrels of pickles, 176 quarts of beets, 40 cans of pumpkins and a 55-gallon barrel of sauerkraut are also in the cellar in addition to 820 quarts of string beans, 200 cans of rhubarb, 200 jars of jelly, 171 cans of kale, 199 quarts of squash and 100 quarts of lima beans.

The canning so far has been supervised by Warden Handy with the assistance of the kitchen crew and help ers. Outside the prison walls six acres, five and one-half of which are south of the prison, are under cultivation. More than 4000 cabbage plants have been planted and a thousand tomato plants have been yielding a big crop.

War Has Changed American Navy in Innumerable Ways

in black or brass relief on the sterns, have been daubed over with camouflage paint or else removed entirely. All shiny, bright brass, including ship's bells, have been coated with dull, sombre gray.

Ribbons on sailors' flat hats now are stamped only with the golden letters, "U. S. Navy." Previously these ribbons around the round, blue hat were imprinted with the name of the vessel to which the sailor was attached.

Personal flags and command pennants are taboo at sea. In peaceful days, each admiral flew his starred blue flag from his ship as did commodores who command destroyer squadrons and destroyer division commanders.

This change in procedure was made so that the foe can not know which ship carries an admiral, a commodore or a division commander.

The two white lights that denoted a flagship at night also have been forbidden.

Large blinker lights, employed for signals, have been banned, and a smaller light that is hooded has been substituted. The Navy wants its signals to go only to those for whom they are intended.

Names of ships or organizations can not be stamped on personal baggage of officers and men as was permissible in peacetime. Squadron insignias, used by navy aviators, have been forbidden.

Cameras are taboo. Radio music is ruled out when the ship puts to sea, there being some chance that enemy craft can pick up the vessel by the radio.

Inside the vessels, large plates of steel, unpainted except for a heavy, red line down their middle, are laid alongside bulkheads. These are for damage control parties and are used to plug gaps that may be made by enemy shell fire or torpedoes. The damage control plates are anonymous with war.

Port holes near the water line have been blanked out. This was done to give the ships stronger bulkheads and make them ready for the roughest of weather.

There are other changes in lives of a ship's company that barely are noticeable to a civilian but strikingly evident to any Navy man. These would include:

A marked decrease in the amount of outgoing mail, attributable to strict censorship of all personal letters.

Prohibitions against general visiting of ships, an edict which serves as a bar to possible Fifth Columnists and saboteurs.

A greater laxity in uniforms, enabling officers and men to attire themselves more comfortably. (Some officers even appear on deck minus their caps these days, but time was when such a breach of uniform regulations would evoke sharp rebuke.)

More youthful crews and a vast increase of land-lubber reserve officers as the Navy expands for war.

"All in all," as an Atlantic fleet officer epitomized it, "our war-time Navy is a great deal different from the organization we had in the days of peace."

public works, G. Thawley Hayman, Dr. John J. Sweeney and George F. Smith.

Burgess John J. Sweeney suggested that Council consider trash collection once a week in the borough, a system that is carried out in a number of towns nearby. There were several opinions expressed against the idea, one being that it would necessitate enlarging the force of borough workmen, which would not be desirable under the present war-time conditions.

ditions. Burgess Sweeney said that when he made the suggestion he was thinking of the great number of people who cannot afford to have trash and ashes hauled away regularly, and those who "often try to find a trash man and can't."

Council received a letter of thanks for an annual contribution of $150 received by the trustees of the Burpee Memorial Playground Association.

Burgess Sweeney also suggested that it might be in order for Council to provide ample space and the necessary desk room for the press. This request, it was thought, should be carried out without further delay.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James H. Galley)

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Eternal God, our Father, help us to know, in all the work of this day, that the still small voice that speaks within us and calls us to the best of things, is the voice of God; that the power that tugs at our hearts is the hand of God; and that the light that falls upon our pathway, directing us in the right way, is the light and the love of our Heavenly Father. So may we walk this day with thee, as thy Holy Spirit guides us, and as we have been taught by Thy Son, Jesus Christ, our Lord, in Whose Name we pray. Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

RITZ THEATRE

An exceptional cast, an interesting story and a picturesque setting combine to add to the enjoyment of "Law of the Jungle," which opened an engagement at the Ritz Theatre last night.

Arline Judge and John King are featured in the leading roles, and both are fully alive to the possibilities of their roles, and give performances which are pleasing and convincing.

GRAND THEATRE

One of the most delightfully entertaining movies of this or any other season made its debut yesterday at the Grand Theatre as Universal's new Irene Dunne comedy, "Lady in a Jam," proved to be an hour-and-a-half's laugh relaxation.

Produced and directed by Gregory LaCava, who is to be remembered for his memorable comedy, "My Man Godfrey," the film had the audience chuckling in the opening scenes, laughing in the middle and howling at the end. It's solid and perfect entertainment.

Miss Dunne is outstanding as the New York heiress who goes bankrupt because she can't distinguish between principal and interest. She goes West to the badlands of Arizona to recoup her lost fortune working an abandoned gold mine in a ghost town.

BRISTOL THEATRE

If Milton Berle, Brenda Joyce and John Shelton value their lives they'd better look behind them quickly before

Lt. Newbold is one of his class. John Carradine gets a chance to murder them. This "chilling" scene is from "Whispering Ghosts" which is currently thrilling moviegoers at the Bristol Theatre.

Guest of honor at a house party in a weird murder castle, Charlie Chan is called upon to solve his most baffling case in "Castle in the Desert," the new hit at the Bristol Theatre.

MEAT LOAF RECIPE

ARMY AIR BASE, LINCOLN, Neb., (INS)—If you had to feed a lot of hungry soldiers, could you whip a meal together with all the finesse and ease that a mess chef at the Lincoln Army Air Base does? Here's a little recipe to try on your guests. To prepare a meat loaf for several thousand men, all you do is, take 450 pounds of ground beef, add 50 pounds of onions, 1 bushel of green peppers, 1 crate of celery, 48 cans of tomatoes, 48 bottles of catsup, 15 pounds of cracker meal, 50 pounds of flour. Now mix gradually and add salt and pepper to taste.

FOUR BOWLING LEAGUES FORMED AT FIRST MEETING OF THE SEASON OF THE BRISTOL BOWLING ASSOCIATION

Four leagues were formed at the meeting of the Bristol Bowling Association held last night at the Bristol Recreation Center. But because several of the leagues are expanding there are openings for teams. Any team interested in joining the circuits are requested to contact Horace C. States, secretary of the association.

Last night's meeting was presided over by vice-president, Robert Robinson. Bernie Carlen, president of the association, was unable to attend.

The Major League was formed with six teams and this was closed with the same number. The teams are: Burlington, Rohm and Haas, Bailey's, Bristol Bowling Club, Jefferson A. C. and Badenhausen.

The National League had six teams last season and now nine teams have applied for admission. The officials of the circuit wish to see this increased to twelve, making three openings. The teams are: K. of C. Leedom's, Wilson's, Diamond, Starkey Farms, Auto Boys, Moose, Juno All-Stars and Lynn's All-Stars.

Four teams went into the American League. The officials state that this can be either a six or eight team league. The entries are: Badenhausen, Dougherty's, Wilson's and Diamond.

There are three openings in the Federal League. Five teams have applied for admission and this is usually an eight-team loop. The teams are: Hunter's, Leedom's, Keller's Cafe, Langhorne, and Penn Valley.

The Diamond team won its fourth straight game of the second half of the Bristol Softball League, trimming the Fifth Ward ten, 13-3, last night on the Rohm and Haas field.

The game was nip and tuck until the sixth inning when the Diamond team blasted away for nine runs after holding a 4-2 lead. The winning aggregation accounted for 15 hits off Bartholomew and most of these were made in the sixth as the Fifth Ward hurler blanked the Mill streeters in the first three frames.

Jesse Vanzant and Joe Plebani had three hits out of three for their respective teams.

ANNOUNCES LIST OF ELIGIBLE MEN FOR GAME SERIES

AT ST. ANN'S FIELD

Player Must Have Been in Five Games To Be Eligible

Announcement has been made of the eligible players for the playoff series between the Edgely and Voltz-Texaco teams. The five-game series gets under way this Sunday on St. Ann's field.

Secretary Thomas Juno has announced the following eligible players' roster:

Voltz-Texaco—Chas. Mazzillo, Harold Shackleton, Anthony Boccardo, Elijah Bragg, William Gallagher, Fred Baocchi, William Dougherty, John Dougherty, George Dougherty, Wendell Tazik, James Cooper, Teddy Sak, Paul Schumacher, Harry Berry, Art Krames, William Whitner, Andy Moore, Leo Hibbs. Paul Voltz is signed as a coach.

The Suburban League rules call for a player to participate in at least five games before he is eligible to play. Voltz-Texaco lost five players because of this rule and Edgely will do without the services of four signed players.

district meetings. Increasing transportation difficulties brought about by the war determined the change over from the county wide meeting to a system of district conferences. Ninety per cent of the teachers must travel by private cars to get to Doylestown and by scattering meetings in six different boroughs in the county, most teachers will not need to travel very far. The district meetings will permit a discussion type of meeting because of the smaller number of teachers involved. Superintendent Boehm explained.

This will be the first time in many years in which the teachers of Morrisville and Bristol will participate.

On October 6th, elementary teachers will gather at Quakertown and Doylestown and the high school teachers of that section at Sellersville-Perkasie. On October 7th the elementary teachers of the lower part of the county will meet at Bristol and Newtown with the high school teachers going to Morrisville.

Dr. Ruth Fedder, psychologist, and Genevieve Bowen, elementary supervisor, both of whom at present are teaching at the Summer School at Teachers College, Columbia, will be in charge of the programs. They will be assisted by selected committees of teachers.

The high school teachers will concentrate upon the problem of high school youths with Dr. Harold Hand of the University of Baltimore as the discussion leader.

Problems on reading, social studies, and art will occupy the time of the Hospital and of the teaching staff of Grand View School of Nursing, Sellersville.

Mrs. A. Margaret Abbott, 94, Warrington, died in the Doylestown Emergency Hospital on Friday evening. A week previous she fell and broke one of her legs at the home of her daughter, Anna Abbott, Stuckert road, Warrington.

The deceased was a widow. Her husband, the late Jacob E. Abbott, died some years ago. She had resided in the Warrington section for over 30 years.

One of the most enjoyable events to be held in St. Michael's Lutheran Church in recent years was the reception to the new pastor, the Rev. Ralph Kerstetter and his family.

The entire Sunday School room was filled with members who bid them welcome to the church and community.

The new pastor had requested that it be informal.

Again he paid homage to his predecessor, the late Rev. J. H. Waldeich and to his long pastorate. "Often when we drove through Sellersville we stopped to gaze at the beauty of St. Michael's Church which stands so strong and sturdy on the hills," he said.

When 21-year-old Frank Mattis, former Morrisville High football star, left for duty with the U. S. Navy on Thursday, Mrs. Catherine Mattis became the third mother in Morrisville with three sons in the service.

Two other sons are already in the service. Private John B. Mattis, 28, is stationed with the Coast Artillery at Fort Story, Virginia, and was in the service a year this past August 7th. Private Charles Mattis, 26, is a member of the service company Armored Regiment at Fort Knox, Ky., and has been in the service for three months.

Ask Review of Trial

London—A Ministerial review of death sentences passed against six Irish youths convicted of killing a Belfast policeman was asked today of Prime Minister Winston Churchill in a message from Sir Hubert Gough.

"For the sake of Irish-British relations I implore you to secure a Ministerial review of the death sentences," Sir Hubert wrote the Prime Minister. The executions were scheduled for today but a stay was granted to file an appeal. The policeman was shot to death when the gang of youths waylaid a police car.
